Re: United States v. Hassan Nemazee, 09 Cr. 902 (SHS)

Dear Judge Stein:

We represent Hassan Nemazee, the Defendant in the above-referenced criminal case. Mr. Nemazee is presently on supervised release. On March 25, 2020, you approved of Mr. Nemazee's travel to Costa Rica in connection with his employment. He is managing several real estate development projects there for his employer. Because Costa Rica was closed because of the world wide spread of the corona virus, this trip never occurred. As part of the same Order (docket #157), you authorized the Probation Office to approve further travel. A previous trip to Costa Rico was approved by the Court in February and occurred without incident.

On October 13, 2020, Mr. Nemazee advised his probation officer that this previously approved trip was now being rescheduled for November 12 and requested permission to travel. I wrote to him on October 23, 2020 and provided a detailed explanation of the business purpose of the trip. A copy of my October 23 letter is attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference. A letter from Mr. Nemazee's employer which included an itinerary, description of the business to be conducted (relating to real estate developments) and the persons in attendance was provided to the probation officer as well. A copy of that letter is also attached.

On November 3, 2020, Mr. Nemazee was advised by his probation officer that the Probation Office was referring this request to the Court. Mr. Nemazee asked for a copy of the letter so that he could respond and was told by his probation officer: “ My chief will review the letter tomorrow and determine if it’s a confidential memo to the court or memo to all parties.” We object to any attempt at ex parte communication with the Court, and assume that any correspondence will be shared with Mr. Nemazee and me, as we have copied the probation officer on this letter.

We understand that the Probation Office may raise the following issues:

1. The trip to Costa Rica is now scheduled to occur over the Thanksgiving (which is not a holiday in Costa Rica) and Christmas holidays.

The trip was delayed from April due to the pandemic and this is the soonest that it could be rescheduled. Costa Rica only reopened its borders to travelers from the United States on November 1, 2020. Construction on the projects in Costa Rica was also delayed for the same reason and part of the purpose of this trip is to be sure that these projects are ready for the Christmas season. These are rental properties and Mr. Nemazee’s employer relies on rental income from them during the holiday season.

2. Mr. Nemazee has a personal relationship with the principal of his employer.

Mr. Nemazee has always been completely transparent with his probation officers about his personal relationship. In fact, that relationship is the reason why he has been able to re-enter society so well after a long period of confinement. As the court is aware, many inmates rely on friends and family for employment after their release. Mr. Nemazee has done the same. While his relationship enabled him to obtain a job, it is still a job. He earns a salary based on his ability to travel to supervise the construction projects of his employer. As my October 23 letter pointed out, this job enables him to make monthly restitution payments. If he can’t do his job, his employer will find someone else to do it, jeopardizing his income and the restitution payments.

There is no reason why this trip should not be approved now since it was previously approved by both the Probation Office and this Court. Nothing has changed since April. Mr. Nemazee has followed all of the rules and there has been no issue with his supervised release whatsoever. He has traveled on business both internationally and domestically in the past for his employer with permission and without incident. We respectfully request that the Court approve this trip.

A proposed order permitting this trip is attached to this letter. The form of this order is the same as has been submitted in the past. As of the writing of this letter, we are unaware of the position of the U.S. Probation Office for the Southern District of New York. We have been unsuccessful in reaching Mr. Lockard at the U.S. Attorney’s Office.

Defendant's request for an international trip to Costa Rico for two months over the holidays is denied. The Court is concerned about the ability of the Probation Department to supervise effectively the defendant during that period.
